AFTER THE MISCHIEF MAKER.

We believe the Telegram said some of the teachers at Broadus would resign. The News replied that it was false. Along came the resignation of one of the teachers. The Telegram gave it to the world. Then the News follows with an admission that one teacher did resign. Who lied in this instance? The Telegram says there is a trouble here that should be rooted out. The News follows in its next issue and admits that there is a trouble there that ought to be rooted out, but from its line of argument, it does not want the Baptists of this state through their representative, the General Baptist Association, to root it out. Then who is to root it out? No one ever said that the faculty or student body was responsible for the trouble and the News itself recognizes that the trouble comes from some one else, although a bomb like one of Ben's lemon elasts is likely to drop shortly and explode.

In placing the trouble we quote the News on the subject and congratulate it for being on the right scent. The News says:

"We are willing to have the trouble rooted out, but how is it to be done? Let us though understand that the trouble was not originated by a member of the faculty and that the student body, if at all implicated was only a secondary cause. As said we would be only too glad to have the matter rooted out and forever eliminate from the school the mischief maker."

The News says the editors of this paper do not try to find out about Broadus. Those acquainted with the history of Broadus say it looks like we know all about Broadus, and the News only echoes our knowledge. We opine there are others who know that we know the inside history of the school from its very start here, and know more than suits them for us to know.

Broadus does not depend on either the present faculty or student body and at this time criticism is not made about them. It is bigger game we are going after. The present faculty may remain, the present student body may also remain. The school may go on but that does not root the trouble out. Now is the time to see that it is rooted out. Free Broadus from it just as the News agrees with us, and the school will enter upon a marvelous era of usefulness. Let it remain as it is and its efforts to rise up to great glory and exaltation will be frustrated just as it is about to attain the goal, and tumbling down again as of yore it will come.

REPUDIATES REORGANIZERS.

Anent the attitude taken by the Cincinnati Enquirer, owned and edited by one of the most prominent Democrats of modern days, toward the Bryanism and Parkerism that have wrecked the Democratic party, we clip the following from the Enquirer's editorial columns showing the death knell of false leadership in the Democratic party has been sounded and giving the Bryan-Hearst reorganizers, a solar-plexus blow, which will later result in their complete overthrow.

"The time has come for a general showing of hands. The Enquirer is ready with its pronouncement. It will not, under any circumstances, fall in with a leadership that has been three times resisted by the people, but has still insisted on governing the party councils. It is for America, and for the American people. It is for prosperity and not calamity for the sake of triumph. No more Bryan leadership, no more dilution of Democracy with Populism, repudiation and heresy; no more restraint on the flight of the American eagle, and no more tuggings at the holding-back strap for yours truly, the Cincinnati Enquirer."

GRAND JURY MAY INVESTIGATE.

The situation revealed in the report of Receiver Lawson, of the Eureka Loan and Building Association, looks as if it might be the foundation for action by the grand jury. It appears that justly would in some way protect the many whose hard earnings have been lost and that some one may be guilty of a crime and ought to be punished. It is not enough in the conduct of institutions of this or other public sort to say that its funds have gone by default and let it go at that. The criminal feature, if there be any, ought to be looked after, just as much as the civil side of it. There may have been no crime committed in the conduct of this institution, but it will take a thorough investigation to convince many of the shareholders who lost money they could ill-afford to lose, to convince them that the association was conducted on the square.

Let some of those who howl so much about alleged neglect in public office insist that there be safer methods employed in public business institutions.

PASSENGER DEPOT TO BE MOVED

And Many Improvements and Enlargement of Facilities To Be Made By the B. & O. Railroad Company.

Among the improvements that are to be made on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at this point, it is said, is that of making several changes in the passenger depot and the construction of additional tracks for the accommodation of the passenger trains. The passenger depot is to be moved southward a distance of twenty-five feet, the building is to be overhauled and enlarged, additional tracks is to be laid in the increased yard space given by the removal of the depot, more platform room is to be provided for and the facilities for passenger, baggage and express traffic are to be greatly improved and enlarged. An appropriation of several thousand dollars has been made by the railroad company, it is stated, for this purpose. This is in addition to the improvements on the freight depot and the freight yards that have been started. This is an improvement that is greatly needed and has been for some time past. Traffic and business generally at the passenger depot have grown to such proportions as to make the present facilities inadequate to handle them.
